Principal's Message

A new group of students accepts the challenge of producing a new and better issue of the Elevator. After many long hours of hard work and meeting deadlines, a new Elevator is born. This group learns many new skills and the importance of working together as a team if success is to be attained. This year's team - staff advisor, Mrs. Olga McNair, editor Carolyn [unclear] and her hardworking colleagues - are to be congratulated for a job well done.

The amount of teamwork throughout the school has resulted in an exceptionally fine year. There has been excellent participation for the intramural activities, excellent co-operation by the students around the school, respect and concern for the property and rights of others and also some very sound decisions. In all, an atmosphere of friendliness and warmth which has been traditional at B.C.I. these many years, was again very evident.

I am confident that the values and skills that our graduates have acquired during their years at B.C.I. will equip them for the demanding tasks that they face in today's society. I have every confidence that they will succeed.

J. Walker

Vice-Principal's Messages

Each year when I am asked to write a short note for the Elevator I have to stop and think back over the year to determine the highlights. This year, along with the usual commendations to the editors of the yearbook, I would like to commend all the students for making this past year very memorable. Your deportment around the school was excellent, as was your involvement in school activities. Your activities in support of various charities in the community was perhaps the most gratifying of all. I hope that this involvement with the school and the community will continue in the future.

I would like to say a special thanks to the editors of the Elevator for all the hard work they did in producing this excellent yearbook.

To the graduates I extend my congratulations and I hope that the future holds for you a full, rich and rewarding life.

H. Hildebrandt

This has been a good year at B.C.I. with enthusiastic student participation in school and community activities and, as usual, very satisfactory achievement at the academic level.

It has been a troubled year, however, on both the domestic and the international scenes. At home, the problems of inflation, unemployment, high energy costs and increasingly difficult relations between provinces and the federal government continue to plague us while, abroad, the poverty of millions, the demands of oil-producing nations, and troubling events in Iran and Afghanistan have contributed to instability everywhere and brought about uncertainty and fears for the future.

With no easy solutions to these pressing problems in sight, it becomes more and more important for students to learn not just facts, which are important, but also the skills to understand and interpret them and to make intelligent decisions based on them. Along with these skills, of course, must go compassion for, without it, humane solutions will not be possible.

Let us hope that you leave B.C.I. armed with enough of these skills and enough goodwill to make a worthwhile contribution to the life around you. Only in this way will you achieve real success and fulfillment.

I wish you that success and that fulfillment.

R. Boyce

Prez Sez

Oh! How time flies when you're busy!! It's unfortunate that the resignations of several original members of this year's student council executive forced the cancellation of a few events. This just added to the confusion and chaos.

However, I must congratulate the newly appointed members on their hard work to make sure the events even got off the ground.

I would like to thank the only two executives who stuck it out the whole year, Shelley Clegg, Secretary; and Jenny McNaughton, Treasurer; with whom I became close friends. I would also like to thank Melanie Ward, V.P. Social; Mary MacDonald, V.P. Extra Curricular; and Kim Gilbert, V.P. Sports; for their excellent ideas.

Special thanks should be extended to our illustrious staff advisor, Mr. Leal, who had to put up with us through thick and thin; and, I'm sure, to whom we gave several headaches throughout the year.

All in all, I think we had an excellent year, and I wish every one the best in the years to come.

Editor's Message

Here I am second time around. It should have been easier the second time, and was in many ways, but we seemed to have more of a problem meeting deadlines than in the previous year. I am sorry we had to go to soft covers this year, but the state of our finances would not permit us to do otherwise. We are still trying to pay off the debt incurred for the anniversary issue of two years ago.

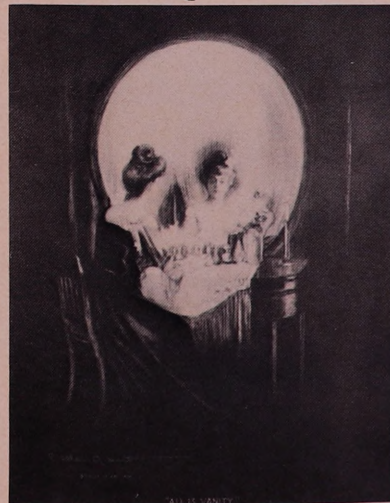

There were times when I was ready to have everything into the garbage, but somehow my staff and I persevered. The compiling of a year's activities and events into a one hundred and twenty-eight page book is often frustrating, always time consuming and a great experience, but it is one I could not have done alone. There were many work (glue) parties at various houses and a lot of claustrophobic hours spent slaving away in the dungeon. I suggest that future editors consider demanding better working quarters. The present arrangements are rather small and have no ventilation.

This year I think the title pages are especially good. I had three excellent artists working on them and I owe them many thanks. Many people learned that once they had started working on the yearbook they were usually roped in again, but I think everyone will feel it was not wasted time. It will mean a lot to them and me to see pages that they worked on.

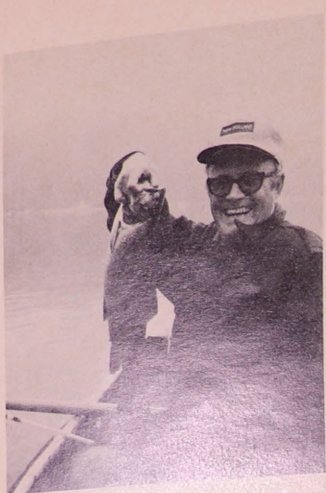

I wish Mrs. McRair luck with her rest after putting up with us and I thank her for all her help. To each and every one of my staff - I can't thank you enough.

Ever, I wish you luck next year.

Look What Happens
When We Say "Smile"

GRAD STATS

PAUL BARBER - Paul, nicknamed Uncle Philostratus, calls his pet peeve disco and everything related to or alluding to it. Not surprisingly, his favourite pastime is listening to classically rock and his ambition -we quote- classic rock and his ambition -we quote- "Nirvana". Murmuring "Confusion will be my epitaph", Paul says his probable destination is most likely a post-secondary institution and we wonder what connotations we are to infer from that?

TERRY BARBER - Terry, (alias Mr. B.C.I.) says his pet peeves are Mr. Tait's jacket and Mr. Way's ties. We guess he expects them to wear tuxedos? Terry likes locking people in "The Cage" - to use his favourite expression "That's a piece of cake!" Becoming something other than the Technical Director of Kampus Kapers is Terry's ambition, and his probable destination is a "a long ways from B.C.I." Loyalist seems to fit that description (?) so good luck next year!

JANE BELNAP - Jane, better known as Jane, has a great dislike for grey sweat socks. She enjoys sports of all types and can usually be found participating in one if not yelling at Jed. Best luck in the future Jane.

JANE BOYD - Yancy tells us she enjoys spending her time doing homework and would really like a ride home when it's raining. She wants to be the best damn artist the world has ever seen, REALLY and after a stint at Loyalist in the Advertising dept. she'll head on out to Cowtown. We wish you the best of luck.

PETER BROWN - Although Peter says he has no nickname, we have heard that he has been called many things by many people - all of them unmentionable! Maybe that's because his favourite expression is "Drop Dead"? Peter seems to have a "thing" about clothes - his pet peeve is Mr. Tait's jacket while his favourite pastime is commenting on what Cathy K. wears. Peter's ambition is to be electrocuted by a TI 58-C and his probable destination is the gutter (his mind being there already)

TRICIA BRUINSMA - Brunski has high ambitions to be a geographer and travel the world over. Her favourite pastimes are sports and listening to music, not necessarily at the same time. Although prejudice is one of her pet peeves she takes a tolerant attitude toward others as her favourite expression is "Well, everybody's different." Triska will probably end up at the University of Waterloo passing on Mr. Ross's jokes. Good Luck!

DOUG CAMPBELL - Doug, better known as Dougie Cam-Soup says his pet peeve is Brador. His favourite expression is "I will remember that" and his ambition is to play for the Blue Jays. Doug says his favourite pastime is coming back to B.C.I. - but his probable destination is anywhere but a post-secondary institution!

BRAD COLE - Brad's nickname is B.J. (no bear) and his favourite expression is "pinhead". Brad says his pet peeve is Judy's mother and his ambition is to try to keep from being a bum. Between working on cars and becoming an electrician, we doubt if you'll find time to be a bum!

MARK CROSS - Mark, better known as "Devo" or "that guy with the camera" says his pet peeve is people who "borrow" cigarettes. His favourite expression seems to be unprintable, while his favourite pastime is bothering Mary Claire in MAG 451. Mark really wants to photograph a live nude girl before he reaches his probable destination - six feet underground! We wish you luck at Ryerson.

SHELLEY DAWSON - Shelley, hates having her name spelt wrong more than anything else. When seen at school she has either come from work or is going to work and now and then has time for classes in between. Music is one of Shelley's fortés and she has been a part of many Music Night and Kampus Kapers displaying her talents. She wants to become a mental retardation counsellor and we're sure she'll be great. Best wishes Shelley!

PAM DEMOREST - Pam, commonly known as Short Stuff, makes one exception in her dislike of tall people - Dale, who just happens to be her favourite pastime. "But you know" Pam feels she'll probably end up in a Honeymoon Suite and seeing's as her ambition is to be married we think she'll probably make it, but "WHO KNOWS"??? Best of luck anyway Pam!

PETER DEMPSEY - Spelling is "Dopey" Dempsey's pet peeve as is evident by his frequent queries of "How do you spell that?" He says he really likes writing English exams, and hopes to someday win the Nobel prize for Literature. Peter feels that his probable destination is to be the leader of the Rhino party. We at B.C.I. wish him success!

NICK DEVRIES - Nick, left us after the first semester to pursue a career with the Armed Forces, and to come down with Cornwallis hack. Before leaving us he was usually (always ?) playing cards in second period, in the cafeteria (greatly stimulating to the mind.) Nick succeeded in buying more coffee and not drinking it than any other B.C.I. student we know. We wish you the best of luck Nick!

DAVE DOWIN - Dave, better known as Doehead, says his pet peeve is taking classes twice. His favourite facial expression is extremely facial. His ambition is to be unemployed (the only one of us willing to admit it) and go mudcatting. His probable destination is repeating HCA 551, but we wouldn't wish that on anyone. Eventually he will end up at Sir Sanford Fleming. Good luck!

JED ENGLISH - Jed, nicknamed Slim, states running out of gas is his pet peeve. This sometimes happens as his favourite pastime is driving anyone's car. "No way" is his favourite expression. As for ambition, he says he doesn't have one and will probably end up in the back room of some store. We wish you luck anyway!

LESLIE FARMER - Lill is our top Ontario Scholar and her talents don't end there - she has performed her skills in acting and in music at K.K. and other school functions, and has taken to directing also. Leslie has proved herself as an athlete too and was a member of the senior soccer team during the school year. But don't let this scare you away, she's an all round super person and we're sure Jeff would agree. We wish her luck next year at Queen's where she plans to take math and science.

GERRY FINKLE - Gerry, known well as the phantom bicycle rider, says "Fer Sure" his pet peeve is dishpan hands. Unfortunately he feels he will probably end up in a kitchen somewhere with dishpan hands. But take heart Gerry we're sure you'll be a success at whatever you do.

DOUG FULLER - Doug, better known as Shrimp, says short doorways are his pet peeve. His main pastime, favourite or otherwise, is doing math homework. He will probably end up selling brushes if not attending a post-secondary institution. But he wouldn't supply us with that information. Good luck anyway!

CHRIS GIDDINGS - Chris, saw the error of her ways and decided to come to good ole B.C.I. She proved herself as an artist and would like to attend Sheridan College to further her abilities. Chris was also one of our senior volleyball team member's. We wish Chris much happiness in the future!

BRIAN GLASS - Brian says that his favourite expression is "Holy Mackerel!", and baseball is his favourite pastime (we thought it was math ?) Good luck in the future!

SHIRLEY HINZ - Shirley, Shelley (whichever!) has a pet peeve - locks that won't open, thus jinxing her entire day. She says her favourite expression is "it's a piece of cake" (although WE'VE heard she prefers hunks). Shirley wants to be a lawyer, and a Western graduate, but fears that she will have to settle with watching old Perry Mason re-runs.

ELEANOR HINZE - Eleanor, better known as Alfalfa-Nor or Ketchup, says her pet peeve is Jeannie Hubbers (who just happens to be her best friend) and Chemistry teachers. She has a couple of favourite expressions, "You dumb tit", and "If you know what I mean, jellybean." Her favourite pastime she feels is unmentionable, and she has a burning desire to be an educated bum. With this in mind her probable destination is one college or another, ending up six feet under sooner or later. But we know she's going to Loyalist for accountancy. Lots of luck Eleanor Louise!

DEBBIE HOWARD-BROWNE - Debbie, is our exchange student from South Africa. Her aim seems to be to collect the largest number of pins from Canada as possible. Debbie, while at B.C.I. sang in the choir and was the Mistress of Ceremonies for "On Stage Tonight." We're sure she won't be forgotten and hope she can visit Canada again. Totsiens!

JEANNIE HUBBERS - Jeannie, also known as Jeannette, says her pet peeve, is smells emitting from another person's locker. Whenever we need from a vet we'll know to call Dr. Jeannette at Trudeau Park, preferably not on a long weekend. When asked about her post secondary institution she said "Hey you guys" I'm going to Guelph where my probable destination is the maternity ward?! Well we hope you fulfill your ambition to become a vet, because Eleanor's horses will need their own private one. Good luck!

ANDREA ISNOR - Andrea was the first one to drive to school this year with snow on her car, but what can you expect when you live out in the sticks. She started out as the Girl's Sports Editor for the yearbook, but finally decided that she just couldn't stand Functions AND Calculus at the same time. Andrea then decided to check out Centennial and see if math is better there. Best wishes in all your future endeavours!

ALFRED JOHNSTON - Alfred says his favourite expression is "Heip" - possible because his favourite pastime is trying to survive Calculus! Fred wants to become an engineer even though his probable destination is military school. Good luck Fred!

CATHY KENNELLY - Burger King is "Kippy's" pet peeve, and while she wants to be an X-ray Technician, she fears she will be making whoppers at Burger King for life! Cathy's favourite pastime is D.W. and lolling on Miami Beach, and her two favourite expressions are "Go for it" and "Your mind is in the gutter." One word of warning - be careful to whom you tell that story about your snowsuit!

JOAN KINGSTON - Joan, alias Joanie likes looking for six foot blondes with blue eyes. Her pet peeve is having Mr. J. Smith three years in a row. Although Joan's ambition is to be a City Planner we believe she will probably end up on the Mike Douglas Talk Show. Joan plans to attend Windsor University. "OK Boss" maybe you'll find some six foot blondes there. By the way Joan says she's the first B.C.I. student to go to Windsor. Good luck in all pursuits!

DOUGLAS KNUTSON - Doug's nickname is "Nutson" and that is his pet peeve (besides Calculus, of course!). He says that his favourite pastime is balancing redox equations and to that we say his favourite expression - Humber! Doug wants to be a Geological Dentist (mine his own fillings?) and feels that his probable destination is the grave. Cheer up Doug we're sure your immediate future is much brighter!

ELSPETH LANGSTAFF - Elspeth, better known as "Bert", says she hates walking to third floor (who doesn't?). Her favourite pastime is spending money. When? "Anytime" according to her favourite expression! Elspeth wants to become an author of children's books but is afraid she'll end up as Dr. Seuss' top fan! Have a good time at Michigan State College!

JOHN LOWRY - Joanne really wants to make a living, but since he's usually playing cards in the cafeteria that's debatable. Only kidding John. If he doesn't end up in a math class he'll end up in Heaven saying "G-day Sir." Journalism at Loyalist College is really what John will be up to next year. Maybe we'll read one of your articles in the Washington Post or the New York Times!

STEVE LOWRY - Steve, alias "Skeeter" has been overheard to say "I've walked up the stairs so many times ..." so we brilliantly deduced that his pet peeve is climbing stairs. Steve's ambition is to be six feet tall presumably so he'll have an extra advantage at his favourite pastime, tennis. Steve says about his probable destination "Beats me!" but, as he says so often, he's likely "Just Joshin'" (JJ). Best of luck next year in Thunder Bay at Lakehead!

PETER LUSCOMBE - Peter, also known as Pal, says his pet peeve is being pursued by canines and automobiles while running. He feels procrastination is his favourite pastime, in which he is aided by his favourite expression "I'll do it tomorrow." In spite of this his ambition is to get something done, and he probably will. He thinks he will probably end up at University of Waterloo in the Co-op Arts programme. We hope you reach your goal to get something done!

DONNA MACKINNON - Donna, nicknamed Jess, feels her pet peeve has been the prison guards at the northeast doors of B.C.I. "Golly" is her favourite expression. To be an Animal care Technician is her ambition. As her favourite pastime is opening cans of beer with her teeth, her probable destination will be Belleville General Hospital to get her teeth fixed. Good luck at college!

PAT McARDLE - Pat McWhat?'s pet peeve is second period breakfast and the stage crew (which seems odd since he is a member!) "Grow up" is Pat's favourite expression - we've heard he talks to himself a lot (when he's not bothering Leslie). Contrary to popular belief, Pat is not an "army buff" but a modern Grizzly Adams turned geologist. He's going up north to college - good luck and don't get lost!

LORI McCONKEY - As one of the renowned Suzi Snowflake Singers of Ameliasburgh, Lori Lou McGronkey would love to ski to Broadway to put on her act, but she's afraid she'll only end up in Hollywood taking MAG 451. Lori will be attending Loyalist to become a mental retardation counsellor and we wish her the best of luck!

JOHN PAUL McGRATH - J.P. has high ambitions - he wants to be the best at whatever he decides to do. He never did succeed in his attempts to convince Mr. Retallick to call him J.P. but he came close. His favourite expression is "How's she going?" and his favourite pastime is waterskiing, but we're sure he fits J.B. in there somewhere. John Paul does say that Mr. Ross' Geography classes were all right and we imagine he heard the story about the one that didn't get away many times. Best of luck J.P. at whatever you do!

MARGOT McINTOSH - "Maggie Moo" McIntosh hates school in general but really likes watching soaps and partying! Her ambition is to play for the N.B.A. and her probable destination is Ryerson. Hey Matgo - "Are you goin' down?" Have fun next year!

GREG McKENNY - Greg says that his favourite expression is T.O. - and that is his probable destination as well. Greg's favourite pastime is "booze, sex, and rock'n roll" and his ambition is to become a political genius. We wish you every success, Greg!

PAUL McLEAN - Paul (alias Big Paul) says his favourite pastime is Calculus (the weird one in the class) and his ambition is to become a calculator. We wonder if he really wants to be punched all the time? Paul's pet peeve is rust, his favourite expression is "It's Le Rock's fault", and he feels that his probable destination is bouncing at the Canadian. Well - good luck wherever, Paul!

SALLY MINAKER - Sally's pet peeve is people fiddling with her punctuation. According to her favourite expression - "that's redundant!" Sally's favourite pastime is rehearsing "ardent embraces" for Kampus Kapers and her ambition is to perform "Suppressed Desires" on Broadway. However, she says that her probable destination is reciting copula verbs to uninterested students - and only if the teaching situation improves!

CAROLYN MONTGOMERY - And then we come to our dear editor Carolyn, alias Gummer (though to no fault of her own). Yes, yes it's true, Carolyn really hates anything that remotely resembles a math exam (particularly MAC 551) Well you won't have any more so Congrats! Carolyn wants to be a musician and will probably be one (if we don't keep her locked up in the Elevator dungeon). For the time being we're going to let her attend Loyalist to be a Medical Secretary. Good Luck always in the future Carolyn!

SHEILA MORTON - "Mort" hates the B.B.S. and cake, and her favourite pastime is partying. However, since her ambition is "to ski forever", we wonder when she will find time to pursue this favourite pastime? Sheila plans on attending Queen's and to quote her, "Peace", Sheila!

MARK MOYNES - "Monsieur le president" (alias Marky) says he detests Mr. Fletcher's chemistry reports, and would prefer to be wrestling pigs back at the farm. When he was asked how this was done, his favourite expression slipped out - "Don't ask me! How am I supposed to know?" However, we know his ambition is to wrestle crocodiles, and attend either Kingston luni-bin, Queen's or Waterloo (in preferential order) to study Engineering. We know that Mark is sure to succeed in at least one of his ambitions!

LYNNE PAPINEAU - Lynne, another of the infamous Suzi Snowflake Singers of Amel. came down sick and had to be replaced at their second record performance at B.C.I. (the record? - they were allowed to do it the second time). But not to worry, she singlehandedly overcame this by not enjoying the majority of her classes, which included Chemistry and Statistics. When not spending time with Mike she can be found working industriously at the Bus Station. Lynne made some mention of going into business, possibly accountancy, but we wish her well no matter what she chooses!

GREG POLAN - Greg, known to his friends as "Pollock" says his pet peeve is being called names of Polish descent. When queried on any subject his favourite reply is "How the hell am I supposed to know." Roto-tilling is his favourite pastime. With his humble ambition to be a humble engineer in Humble, Ontario, he will probably end up at Loyalist.

GERRY PULVER - Gerry just couldn't get enough of good ole B.C.I., so she came back to further her knowledge which is strange since her pet peeve is B.C.I. She spends most of her time bugging P.A.L. and when asked about her ambitions she felt she had none. (like a few other people we know). Gerry figures she'll probably end up back on the farm, but she's headed towards Waterloo where she's taking Co-op Biology. Her usual sentiments are "I don't know", but we think she probably does. Good luck at university!

MARTHA ROBERTSON - Black, just loves wiping tables at D.Q. but, it's a step on the way to being the world's greatest chef or the world's greatest dishwasher whatever the case may be. She admits that it really bothers her when people use the expression "I don't care" but we've retaliated by resurrecting a past nickname - Richie Rich. Not to worry Martha plans to attend a university sometime in the future and we know she'll succeed!

RICHARD SEEMUNGAL - Our friend Stan likes to make an appearance once in a while, but when not in school he is out making his millions so that he can become filthy rich. His favourite pastime is spending time with good friends, especially Karen Dodson. Richard figures he'll probably end up in the south (after changing his mind from out west). Good luck wherever you are!

RUTHANNE SOUTTER - Ruthanne is known to one and all as Rusty (we haven't the faintest idea why). Her great ambition is to be a psychologist, and her favourite pastime is analyzing the patrons at Jessica's. If not punking out at Jessica's maybe you'll find her in To, however, she will be spending the next few years at Queen's. We wish you the best.

MARGARET TAYLOR - Margaret, commonly known as War-Paint Maggie, says her pet peeve is home-work on weekends. Actually she doesn't like it that well at any time. "Who me??" says Maggie, for this is her favourite expression. Free weekend plus Mike VonHatten is her idea of a good time. To become taller is her secret ambition. Who knows what her probable destination may be.

FRANCES VACIRCA - Fran or Franie's pet peeve is brothers and sisters. But she finally decided to take a step in the right direction by coming to good ole B.C.I. for the first semester. When not getting into the books Fran likes to try her luck on the slopes. If she doesn't meet some handsome instructor in the meantime we'll wish her lots of luck at McMaster next year!

DOUG VIDITO - Doug, better known to his friends as Frito Ban Dito, calls homework his pet peeve. Why should he work when, according to him, "he's perfect?" Doug's favorite pastime is playing pool, and his ambition is to become a welder and not end up behind the eight ball!

ELLEN WETHERALL - "Yeh, yeh" El says her pet peeve is school in general (she should get together with Margo), but we know she likes it enough to finish grade 13. When not planning to take over all the restaurants in Canada (at least Ontario) she is partaking in various activities in J.F.'s or helping Martha with the floor at D.Q. Ellen plans to take Food and Beverage Management at Sir Sanford (she knows about the second half) and she'll do great!

SUZANNE WILLIAMS - Suzanne's nickname is Loader - we can't imagine why! and her favourite expression is "Let's bag off". She says she hates school, homework, essays, and people who don't drink. Suzanne wants to be a nurse, and only hopes she isn't scheduled to work on Quart Nights at the Green Door! However, she is quite prepared to give First Aid at the Green Door if her post secondary institution turns out to be B.C.I.

DALE WRIGHT - Dale, called "Teddy Bear" (but only by his friends) wants to become a Dallas Cheerleader. We hate to be discouraging so we will only quote Dale's favourite expression - "No way!" We agree that Dale's probable destination is to be a B.C.I. Cheerleader. Dale's pet peeve is the Pittsburgh Steelers while his favourite pastime is watching Dallas (Cheerleaders or team?)

Don't ask why, it comes with the pose!

I know I'm gorgeous, you don't have to tell me.

Don't bother me now. I'm busy ..... come back later!

I just don't have the strength to fight them off anymore.

Get those scissors away from my head!!

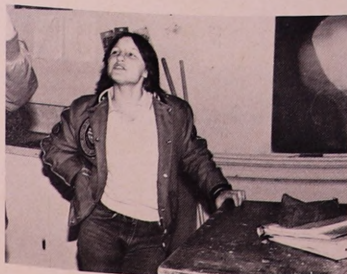

Sure I'm a Junior Farmer.

You sly fox you.

Jane Boyd, genius at work.

Think you're TOUGH do ya!

Horace Poem

Much to his Mum and dad's dismay Horace ate himself one day.
He didn't stop to say his grace
He just sat down and ate his face.
"We can't have this! His dad declared,"
"If that lad's ate he should be shared but even as he spoke they saw Horace eating more and more.
First his legs and then his thighs
His arms, his nose, his hair, his eyes ...
"Stop him someone!" Mother cried
"Those eyeballs would be better fried!"
But all too late, for they were gone,
And he had started on his - (expletive deleted)
"You could have deep fried them with prawns
Some parsley and some tartar sauce
But H. was on his second course
His liver, and his lights and lungs
His ears, his neck, his chin, his tongue;
"To think I raised him from the cot,
And now he's gone and ate the lot!"
His mother cried. "Was that so bad?
What's all this fussing and a fussing
And shouting and shouting and shouting
He ate his legs, his nose, his hair, his eyes
And they're here, they're here, they're here,
Just a string of words, a string of words,
None the less, they're words, they're words,
They are words, they are words, they are words.

Dialogue of the Absurd

- What's out there?
- Nothing there.
- What's out there?
- Nothing's out with lunch.
- Who are you?
- Yes, who are you? (GASP) Why, it's - it's -
- it's not - any of my business, is it?
- Yes, it is.
- You killed my father!
- Who?
- Yes.
- Sorry about that. But he gave my lunch away.
- She wasn't yours.
- She wasn't who's either.
- Oh, Well - don't you at least feel sorry for who in heck?

"Reality is Just for Those Who Can't Face Drugs"

Once again I ask you, what is real?
Is it what I see?
Or what I think and feel?
Yes, it may be ...
It's kinda funny -
The day is kinda sunny
As I stare out my window
At you staring at me.
What do you see?
You see a shadow, and think that it's me -
But it's you; it's all you.

I ask who you are;
But you really don't know,
I ask, what you know;
But all you know is words -
You know what you have heard
And think what you're told,
Eat what you are fed,
And more when you're sold,
Ya, you say you fear death; alright.
-- But you're already cold. --

What's the Difference?

Thru the ages, greatest sages,
From one million miles away,
Saw then what we see now,
And what we know today ...,

We haven't changed - just rearranged
The things we teach and preach and say,
But all the words - all those I've heard,
Still haven't changed
the way we live and think and play.

And what of Napalm and Viet Nam;
The talk of peace instead?
Of all the words that I have written
And all the words I've read,
Not one will reach or save
Even one of your war's helpers dead.

Brett Lisk

Tribute

His films have hit the nation's people like a "Roller Ball" and even "In the Heat of the Night" his genius and creativity has rivaled that of even "Jesus Christ, Superstar". Such distractions as "A Fiddler on the Roof" have not taken away from "The Thrill of It All" and yet in all modesty, he still states "Send Me No Flowers". Despite "Forty Pounds of Trouble" from "The Landlord" his amazing man is still determined to fight for "Justice Now!" and warn the world "The Russians are Coming, The Russians are Coming".

This is a capsule history of a man who has hit the modern television and film industry with great works that have obviously earned the fruits of creativity. When first looked upon, Norman Jewison's accomplishments seem super-human, however in person this Canadian producer-director is as down to earth as Mother Nature herself. He is, in short, a man with a well thought-out system of values, whose life-long desires to entertain, to be part of the world of show business have never been in conflict with his idealistic aim to depict the comedy, tenderness, savagery and tragedy of life. As he sees it, everything he has done, from working in his father's store in Toronto, to travelling across Canada again and again, to his first radio and television assignments in England has contributed to that wealth of experience without which no film is successfully made.

Unlike many people in the lime-light, there is no man behind the man. Norman Jewison is Norman Jewison, although a Hollywood agent did once suggest that he change his name to something a little less Jewish, like "Christianson". Norman then replied "Yes, 'Irving' Christianson". I shall never forget my personal encounters with this man. His flair and wit were finalized during his visit to our London home by the signing of my sister's cast "Jesus Christ Superstar". What modesty!! Or more properly, false arrogance.

And then one gleaming sunlit morning I watched him gracefully paddling with his two sons at Camp Mazinaw just north of Belleville.

He passed this way.

Leigh Thurlow

How can I explain how I feel about it?
I grew up here. I spent time here.
I gave time here. I took time here.
In return I got a welcome, a belonging.
That's something few things give.
I'm leaving here now. I'll be back.
I'll always be back.

Sitting at home
Watching Saturday night hockey
Age: young
Brown couch, dim light
Brown aura of comfort
One focus - sing song voice following a series of crises and dénouements
In the far-off cold
Blue world of ice.

PASSING OF THE YEARS

The seasons come in
The seasons go out
We know their pattern
without any doubt

Winter begins
the year just right
Towns brightly decorated with tinsel and light

Winter ends
Spring now begins
The snow melts away
There's new life again

Spring ends soon
signaling warmer days
We enjoy them to the fullest
Then comes fall's haze

Fall arrives
bringing the cold and turning green leaves
bright red, orange and gold

Winter again
and long, dreary snowfalls
Christmas and ice
snowmen and snowballs

One more year
comes to an end
but one more comes to follow the trend

The Yearbook

Life is a hypocritical adventure, with reoccurring dreams of fortune and fame.
But with the rate of amazing speed, that we soak up informations it's absurd to think along these lines.

The proclamation of the rising one,
we seldom see the signs.
And go and go without really knowing,
the goal that awaits us at the end.

So on and on in a spiral gaze,
the only thing that life itself can save,
is the essence of the shad-dowy past.

Though nothing can be done to stop this ripe,
we look back along the path,
and remember from where we came.

The Gulls

It was late one cool blustery November eve that I stood on the wind swept after deck of the "Ulster Prince", watching the disappearing lights of Liverpool fading in the distance. The decks were deserted as most people had gone to their cabins by this time. Standing alone, with the wind lightly buffeting at the back of my head, the solitary sense was complete. The only sound was that of the wind and the waves against the sides of the ship.

I have always enjoyed dark windy nights and this was no exception. I was perfectly content to stand there reflecting on the sights of London I had left just hours before and the things that lay ahead in Ireland.

I was considering going back to my cabin when out of the corner of my eye I caught sight of a movement in the darkness beyond. Then, as I watched, out of the black sky slid a white shadow, momentarily followed by another one and another. The white shapes sloped down in an effortless glide towards the stern of the ship. Then suddenly the gliding forms would lift, without apparent effort, upwards as they met the turbulent slipstream.

They lifted as though by some unseen force and weaved gently from side to side, riding the rolling waves of the slipstream. Moving as gracefully as angels, the gulls slowly drifted back. They made the most of their short ride and as soon as the uplifting power of the slipstream had diminished to nothing, they arched to the sky to repeat the maneuver. This went on continuously for hours, this fascinating silent ballet.

Across from the Drugstore

I don't want to stand here waiting any longer.
You said that it would take a couple of minutes,
That you would run in and come right back out again.
I'm still waiting -
and getting colder and colder,
Hurry up,
it's been over an hour
and besides,
how long does it take to buy a bottle of children's aspirins?

Looking-Glass Alice

Through the broken mirror with Alice to the land of Looking Glass.
Sip some sour tea my dear - have a cake, or two.
Now sit back and watch yourself!
Oh Alice, what will you do?

Tuck in your feet Alice,
they're blocking the chimney.
Please watch your manners,
you're insulting the company.

Oh Alice, Alice
What can we do?
You're not Mother Hubbard
who lived in a shoe.
Leave out the Three Pigs
and Red Riding Hood, too.

Ah Alice, Alice
Who are you?

What We Did Before Dinner

In July,
we ate ice cream
and said how good it felt sliding down our hot throats
We threw some ice cream on the sidewalk, and watched it melt.
Fast.

Then we went home for dinner
which none of us liked.
After dinner we came back, and saw that the sun had baked chocolate puddles into which ants were swimming with no luck.
I remember Mother was mad because of the mess that no one wanted to clean up.

Dreams of Tomorrow

Dreams of Tomorrow,
Just fade into the day,
Then you wonder to yourself,
Where have they gone away?

Did they slip behind an evening cloud?
Or fall into the sky?
Your only answer to the question,
Is, WHY I WONDER WHY?

The Menly Men Society

The name speaks for itself. This society has been extremely active during the school year. As one member put it, 'We always got behind our subjects.' An example of this is their supporting roles in the motion pictures, 'Cruising and Deliverance.' As another member put it, 'We couldn't get enough of it.' New members are always welcome to join. There must be a bondage feeling between members. Hugs and kisses to Al Pacino and his masculine friends. Also to the Whips and Chains Inc.

The infamous STAGE CREW would like to take this opportunity to thank the people who without their support would have made our task much easier.

However, three senior members will be leaving us this year. Terry Barber, Pat McArdle, and Peter Brown who's destinations are unknown at this time.

This is only one problem the STAGE CREW has to deal with.

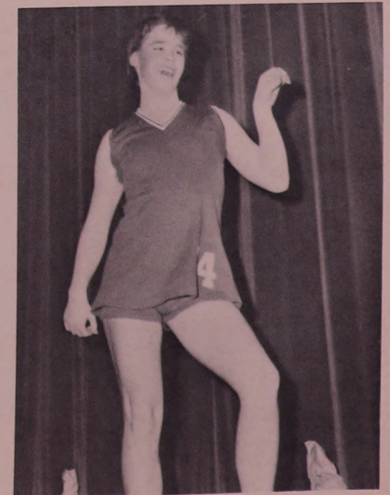

Financially they don't have two cents. They are already four months behind in payments of the room back stage and face possible eviction. So send your tax deductible dollars to:

The 'Monte Carlo' Night was a complete success this year. Hopefully next year's turn out will be just as great. To be a member, you must know how to play poker. But most important of all, you must be able to down a '40' in forty seconds or a '2.4' in twentyfour minutes.

The Basketball Champs (or, ode to Ms. Perlberg)

Once there were eleven Belleville gals,
All from B.C.I.
We were all very good basketball players,
And always scored high.

The first game was at Moira,
And the score was six to three,
Kelly tried a basket,
And fell upon her knee.

The first period was almost ended,
The score was ten to ten.
The coach was chewing bubblegum,
To scare off all the men.

The game had finally ended,
We heard a great big cheer,
For all our friends were watching,
We knew we had no fear.

We played a lot of other games,
And won them all,
But we were in the championship,
When we were going to be champs.

We had a great time,
And we were very happy,
For we were the champions,
And we were very happy.

The game was over,
And we were very tired,
But we were the champions,
And we were very tired.

The game was over,
And we were very tired,
But we were the champions,
And we were very tired.

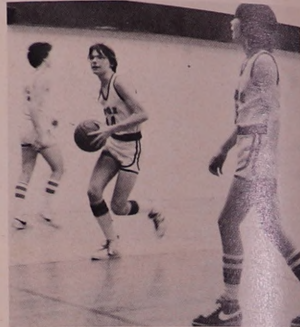

It was so very tiring,
"Tuy" is a great big cheer,
The coach team was tired,
And we were very sore.

The game had finally ended,
With lots of screams and cheers,
For we had beaten everyone,
They stumbled round with fears.

When we got the trophy,
We were the champs of the year,
So we all went to Dar's house,
To have a nice cold beer.

The coach went home happy,
But we got very mean,
For she's the biggest party pooper,
That we have ever seen.

BCI Rugby

Both of BCI's rugby teams enjoyed successful seasons. The junior team won six of their seven regular games and in the Bay of Quinte tournament advanced to the finals with two wins. There they lost to Napanee in a hard played game. The seniors enjoyed similar success by winning their first two games as well. Unfortunately in the finals they too lost. However the fact that both teams were finalists was a tribute to BCI's rugby strength.

Valedictory Address - '79

- Miss Jill Warren -

Mr. Walker, Honoured Guests, Staff, Fellow Graduates, Parents and Friends: After five gratifying years at B.C.I., our graduation day has finally arrived. Many tears of joy and sadness will be shed this evening. Of course we are happy to be setting sail for new horizons, but there is also a feeling of melancholy. We are leaving four or five memorable years of our lives behind us, not to mention rewarding relationships with teachers and friends - many of whom we may never see again - but the memories will always remain.

Memories such as the first day of high school when "we" looked up to the grade 13's in awe - especially when they actually directed us to the right classroom, if and when they directed us to the right classroom. Do you think they ever realized that we thought we were in an unescapable maze? And who can forget the difficulty we had remembering to call Ms. Finner - Mrs. Perlberg - and just when we were getting to know her as Ms. Finner.

Many of you will remember different things. Some of you may look back to particular athletic teams and the championships you won .... or didn't win.? B.C.I. has not only had dedicated athletes in the past, but dedicated coaches as well, and we all know you can't have a good team without a dedicated coach.

Some of you may look back on other aspects of B.C.I. - the pre-Kampus Kapers jitters, Student's Council, stage crew, or other clubs, all of which are fun, full of activity and "WILD AND CRAZY". All of us of course will remember "mid-term exams" or the dreaded "get-sick-quick" week! It always amazed me, how thirty out of thirty-two students in one class could come down with the flu at the same time - and at Mr. Leal would agree... that is the week everyone must try to maintain his or her "equilibrium".

With a year to go, let's remember our yearbook. When we leave B.C.I. we will still be able to flip the yearbook and recapture friendships and special events. Special events such as the Fling, the annual Spring Fling with its May Queen and princesses, the annual Athletic Banquet, the Christmas assembly, parents and coaches, and of course B.C.I.'s Fiftieth Anniversary. One Christmas assembly event was the grade thirteen Christmas assembly. I'm sure Mr. Secker can recall the Christmas gift he received... a lifesize Barbie doll. And as you may remember, the Christmas gift he received... a lifesize Barbie doll. And as you may remember, the Christmas gift he received... a lifesize Barbie doll.

And after the assembly we took them out for lunch... and a late walk home. We have shared and shared throughout our lives so far, particularly in the last five years and for those of us who have spent countless hours with us. Between the work-filled hours, however, we have shared and shared throughout our lives so far, particularly in the last five years and for those of us who have spent countless hours with us. Between the work-filled hours, however, we have shared and shared throughout our lives so far, particularly in the last five years and for those of us who have spent countless hours with us.

A special thanks should also go to the secretarial and custodial staff. They are an important part of our school structure and without them we would have indeed been lost.

The people we graduates, as individuals, should thank tonight, are our parents and loved ones. They sat up with us through feedings, chickenpox, mumps and measles. They took us to our first day of public school and watched us walk off to our first day of high school. When we were having trouble in classes and thought we were not going to make it, weren't they there to encourage us and give us the determination to go on? And whether we got a 45 or 95, it didn't matter as long as we tried our best, that was the important thing. It seemed that no matter how rough a day they had, they were always willing to help us with the "new math", or quiz us for a history test. Our parents and grandparents and the people of their generations have achieved more than we can imagine. They have raised us and imparted their knowledge to us to the best of their ability, and looking around here tonight, I would say they have done a pretty good job.

It should be our goal to achieve as much and more than these people. As time passes, we will be faced with new situations, problems and conflicts - may they be within ourselves, our homes or our nation. Whether we are entering the work force now or after further education, we must become more aware of our nation, its problems and its assets. We are the new generation and we will someday be running this country. I believe we can, because I believe we are well adjusted, intelligent, outgoing and determined. We have been taught to think freely and fairly. We could do well to remember this quotation: "Peace comes not from the absence of conflict in life, but from the ability to cope with it."

To my friends and fellow graduates, thank you for this great honour, good luck and best wishes in the future.

Thank You.
Jill Warren.

A Tribute - Miss Catherine Kelly

"Dreams, books, are each a world; and books we know,
 Are a substantial world, both pure and good.
 Round these, with tendrils strong as flesh and blood,
 Our pastime and our happiness will grow."

In paying tribute to Miss Kelly, a writer is paying tribute to a teacher whose strong convictions are blended with a gentle nature, whose high personal standards are balanced against a warm tolerance of others', whose keen intellect is mellowed by kindly perceptiveness, and whose fierce pride and loyalty are tempered by patient understanding.

Twenty-three years ago a young lady arrived on the staff of B.C.I.V.S. to take charge of its library and teach some history courses. Both areas were her "first loves"; she had taught history along with other subjects, in days of Continuation Schools and subsequently moved into library work in the Public Libraries of Sarnia and Belleville. But it was here at B.C.I. that the two interests came together in a way most beneficial to us.

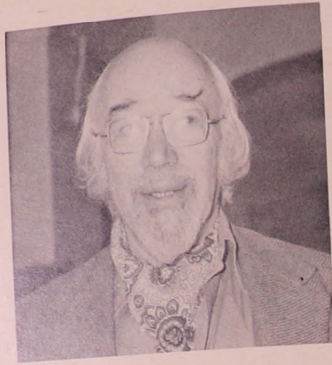

From a service that had been suffering through the years from inadequate development because of insufficient staff and funds, the school library was to undergo, under her direction, a vast change: the classroom that had earlier been formed from space taken from the library was returned to it, to become in part the work room/office at the north end; the quantity of reference material increased sharply; the lending area grew and in keeping with current trends film-strips and filed clippings became plentifully available to students and staff. In time, part-time help has made the library facilities ever more accessible, and students in increasing numbers have enjoyed the development. The library now is a tangible tribute to a teacher whose depth of library knowledge reflects her sense of organization, her directness of purpose, and her desire to foster learning through a love of books.

B.C.I.V.S. is losing in Miss Kelly's retirement one of its staunchest active supporters. Whatever was good for the school was to be done promptly and well. A lengthy day, crowded facilities, frazzled colleague or student all were part of her experience and each was coped with as an essential part of the school. In times past when clubs served the school in various ways, her Library Club was very active, and whatever funds were raised through its activities found their way back into the school's complexion as Commencement Awards, pictures for walls, or donations to worthy causes.

To Mr. Lewis Lambert - a Tribute

At the end of a career when a teacher can view in retrospect thirty-three years spent in our school and some four thousand young lives touched, he is entitled to pause in awesome reflection upon the impact he has had. No one is more capable of such a reflective pause than is Mr. Lambert who leaves our staff this year. And those of us whom he leaves behind welcome the opportunity to join ranks with the "four thousand" to reflect upon what the impact has been.

Where does one look to find another man as gentle as Mr. Lambert? His every fibre is soothed by his love of the good life, by the desire to perform in such a way as to mirror those things he cherishes. A musician of accomplishment, he felt at home with the students' bands and orchestras as he joined their ranks time after time. His gentleness of nature allowed him to understand the errors of tempo and harmony that would have jangled in the ears of a less sympathetic man.

But sympathy was among the traits that were admirable. He understood full well what it meant when a lad was timid and shy. In the din of machinery and the choking of dust he was ever watchful lest accident befall one of his charges, and on the rare occasions when it did he suffered the anguish of self-reproach, the pain of the misfortune and the fears of possible handicap for the unfortunate lad.

This kind and gentle manner did not, however, allow a tolerance for shoddy workmanship or a tardy approach to duty. The demands he made were the demands to be met later on in an industrial world. Too few of us are still around to brag about knowing a man whose fondness for his craft is reminiscent of an earlier day. Mr. Lambert's knowledge and love of wood were painstakingly revealed in the quality of work produced by a student and displayed for public pleasure at various display nights throughout the past.

For many whose personal acquaintance was neither as deep nor as lengthy as our own he may have appeared as an aloof man. Such was really not the case. The "aloofness" was really a requisite to view the ebb and flow of life from a safe distance, a necessary protection behind which he could enjoy those things which gave his own life so much meaning and enjoyment. He had developed the capacity to cut himself off from the dross of life about him, and from the wealth of his own self-sufficiency profit from a careful study of the musicians, artists, writers and thinkers of history, applying their messages to his own life and times.

From our midst then goes a man who in countless ways has enriched the school and the lives of those whom it has served. The gentle kind colleague, the skilled compassionate instructor, the gentleman, the musician, the scholar. It will be long years before we meet his like again.

A Tribute - Mr. Glenn Shaver

Above the flotsam and jetsam of modern-day values Mr. Glenn Shaver years ago rose to choose a code whereby his course of life was to be charted, a course from which neither storm nor strife could distract him, that night and day he has followed to become a devoted husband and father, a beloved teacher, a staunch church-supporter, a loyal true friend.

Here at B.C.I.V.S. during his twenty-five years of duty the battle of priorities was ever to be waged. In days of shifting values and changing emphasis, Mr. Shaver proved to be the constant in a sea of variables. Firmly convinced that what was good for the individual student was also good for the school he has weathered the battles with surety and calm. Convinced, too, of the worth of the individual he was ever a passive threat to those whose priorities were less clear-cut than his own. Consider as well the tenacity with which he clung to his creeds, and you are viewing a man who was "deep and gentle and strong".

The science department was his great delight. Ask any of the scores of students who clustered about him regularly before and after the regular school day what it was that made the relationship so attractive; and the answer, "Mr. Shaver". Though he enjoyed success, his own and others', though he pushed hard and long for high achievement, though he scorned laziness and spurned indifference, his humanity ever shone through. The encouragement bestowed upon the lass who was worried and the solicitude for the lad who felt oppressed frequently gave fresh courage, sufficient to enkindle a desire to begin again and win. Even though his level of scholarship and competence was more than adequate, he could appreciate the attitude of those less enthusiastic than himself.

When a man's values are in order most other aspects of life are, also. The worries and cares of family life are not always easy to endure let alone overcome. But when the good life is so faithfully followed, the reward is the capacity to rise above the tribulations that beset him: No greater example of this can we have than Mr. Shaver.

In sickness and in health, in days of storm and of tranquility, in crisis or calm, there was always the cheerful greeting, the ready smile, the time for a kind word or thought to reveal the serenity of an inner man who constantly fought the good fight against odds that might easily have vanquished a lesser man.

Here then in parting, we do honour to a man totally dedicated to good things. A man of diverse skills and interests, a man highly gifted in crafts and arts that have enriched his days - a man whom Wordsworth would have loved.

"Type of the wise who soar, but never roam True to the kindred points of heaven and home."
