

A HAPPY REUNION

On the 27th April last, Mrs. Sarah Hogle, of Sidney Crossing, celebrated her 86th birthday, and a large party of her relatives and friends met at the old homestead, now owned by Mr. Austin Hogle, her youngest son. There were between thirty and forty persons present, including her six children and a number of grand children and great grand children. Mrs. Hogle still retains full possession of all her faculties and can converse intelligently and interestingly of events that happened some sixty or seventy years ago, when they first settled on the place where she now lives. Her eyesight is also good, she being able to read without the use of glasses and in fact has never used them. Two of her sons are well-known residents of Rawdon township, Messrs Joseph and Abner Hogle; other two sons live on the old homestead, and two daughters are married. A happy time was spent by all present and they hope to spend many more similar reunions.
